Spring Show Program
Thanks for coming to the show

About VTone

We are VTone, Princeton's premier East Asian music group. "V" stands for the Roman numeral 5, and alludes to the pentatonic scale of traditional East Asian music. Since our inception 11 years ago, VTone has slowly moved its way to greater relevance on campus, showing that we are a group that is here to stay. After a two-year stint online, we are thrilled to be performing in person again.

Our show, Palette, was inspired by IU—one of South Korea's most beloved singer-songwriters—and her 2017 album Palette. Through our performances, VTone aims to display the various colors of East Asian music.

点描の唄 (Tenbyou no Uta)

This song is from the movie 『青夏 きみに恋した30日』 (Ao-Natsu: Kimi ni Koi Shita 30-Nichi) about two people who fall in love but know that they can't stay together once the summer ends. Talk about 切ない bittersweet...! It's so hard to do the lyrics justice with the translation, but hope you enjoy:

I (아이)

Original Artist: Taeyeon (태연)

Soloists: Christina Im '22, Pang Nganthavee '22

ten years ago, a girl doing a school project in bangkok asked a girl in portland to design a book cover for it. they forgot all about it. ten years later, here they are on the same stage. this is for the girls they were, and the girls they'll become.

Plastic Love

Original Artists: Mariya Takeuchi / 竹内 まりや

Arranged by: Yoo Shin Tanai '23

Cast: Everyone! It's the company piece.

This is my first ever acapella arrangement for VTone! It's been so amazing to see the piece come to life with everyone's beautiful voices in harmony. It's a Japanese city pop bop that'll have you on your feet, dancing to the plastic beat. The song became a meme back in '17 and has been parodied countless times since!
